Minister's Message:

Aloha! As we enter the 4th month of the year, we are also witnessing the changes in the weather that herald the coming of the spring season. The heavy rains have finally stopped except for occasional drizzles, but it is mostly sunny days recently. So good to have nice weather to greet me in the morning when I open the temple and start the day's chanting.

I have been given the opportunity to help with the preparation of the newly harvested daikon roots to make sambaizuke. From peeling the outer skin, cutting the daikon into big pieces, soaking them in salt water to the chopping of the soaked daikon into smaller pieces for the final marinating in the special sauce that gives the Makawao sambaizuke its unique flavor. I was able to participate and observe how the process is done. The chopping procedure is especially fascinating. Although people were sometimes talking to each other while at work, their concentration on the chopping was focused, and rightfully should be, given that the knives we used were razor sharp. One slip could mean cut, painful fingers and suffering. I was clumsy at first, not used to cutting vegetables, since I do not cook. I nicked my fingernails twice but fortunately no actual skin cut. I thought the daikon pieces I cut were too thick, but gradually, I got the hang of it and the slices came out thinner. The sound of the knives striking the cutting board seems rhythmic---chop, chop, chop..I couldn't help but think that this whole process of making sambaizuke is a tradition in this temple that has been going on for so many years. Then as it is now, members come together, willingly to help, work together as a unit to produce a product that this temple is well known for. The many hands working together, the rhythmic sound of chopping, the friendly voices of people around me, they are images and echoes of the past and present. This whole yearly event has been going on for many years now at Makawao Hongwanji and I felt that to help or participate in it, is like becoming a part of the history of this temple. It is a gigantic task to plant the daikon seeds, harvest, chop into small pieces and soak in the special sauce and let mature for a few weeks, before the final product is ready, but with the cooperative efforts of so many hands working in harmony, the task is not an impossible thing to complete.

I've heard a few comments, jokingly of course, that I was being put to work in helping with the making of the sambaizuke, but in reality, I had a lot of fun doing things that the others were doing. It didn't feel like work at all but more like play. Looking at the many bowls of daikon to be chopped, I initially thought it would take us past noon time to finish but the task was completed before 11:30 that day. Time flies when you're having fun, as the saying goes.

It is true that tasks like making pickled daikon and peaches are labor intensive but when done by many hands working together in harmony, no tasks like these are ever impossible. Attitude also is important, work ceases to be a burden if we enjoy doing what we are doing, be it our jobs, raising a family or completing a project. In the Larger Sutra the Chinese character for play (遊) is used rather than the character for work(働) in referring to the Buddha's efforts to teach the Dharma in order to save all sentient beings. When the Buddha, in his time, went about his daily routine of teaching the Dharma, easing the suffering and problems of people who came to him for help, he did so as if it were "play" and not work. Driven by deep love and compassion for all beings, the Buddha shared the Dharma joyfully to all who were ready to listen to the teachings. He enjoyed what he was doing..it was play rather than work, in spreading the truth of the universe. Wouldn't it be nice if we could approach the challenges of life and other things that we sometimes think as uninteresting, with the same mindset? Then, we do not have to say "I have to come to the temple every Sunday to listen to the teaching, but rather say " I want to come to the temple to listen to the teachings because it is a source of comfort and joy to me" I was once asked "Sensei, if you can help with the harvesting of the peaches this year, it would really be a big favor. It also would encourage others to help as it would appear funny to have the minister participating in the harvest and not so many members present." To which I replied: "It would appear even funnier if everybody else is working and the minister is absent!" I will be there for the peach harvesting.

Namu Amida Butsu.,

Rev. Kalu

President's Message:

Ever since Reverend Kalu arrived here at Makawao Hongwanji Mission, it has been raining a lot. He must have brought the rain with him when he came from Oahu. Our members are complaining of getting wet all of the time. Therefore, to help everyone, we are going to have classes on how to walk on water. The classes are free so don't wait too long to sign up. It has been said that anyone who can walk on water will be guaranteed to attain enlightenment. Once you learn to walk on water, you can amaze your friends. You will be the life of the party. You can also tell us how you did it because we have no idea how its done.

We just celebrated our Peach Blossom Festival. It sounds like a big thing but in reality it was a get-together with our members after our Sunday Service. We had a bento lunch and had a chance to have lunch under the peach trees. Many of our members chose not to eat under the trees because if they sat down, they wouldn't be able to get up. Bobbi Nakagawa and Andy and Betty Hirose were the only ones to actually have lunch under the beautiful blossoms. The Big Island has a Cherry Blossom Festival on the first week of February. Their event is very big and involves the use of busses. We may not be able to get to that level, but who knows

We have started to park cars again for the 3rd Friday Makawao Town Celebration. We decided to stop parking cars for a couple of months because the Makawao Town Association was not blocking the road in town (Baldwin Avenue). When the road was not blocked, we were making $30 to $40 a month. Now that they have decided to block the road again, it has been worthwhile for us to park cars. Many of the cars that came were here for the first time. One comment that we heard was that they were willing to pay $5 for parking because we had people around. So, in a way, we are very fortunate.

I would like to thank David Judd, Calvin & Sharon Higuchi, and Floyd & Sharon Nagoshi for helping with the parking. Reverend Kalu was also there but he had what appeared to be gout in his foot. I told Reverend Kalu to eat a lot of pork and drink a quart of whiskey before going to bed. It won't cure the gout but he will have a good night's rest. Now you all know that you should not ask me for medical advice. Actually eating beef is a better option because I heard that it was better for you. After all, the cow is a vegetarian. How can you go wrong?!!!

See you next month,

Mike

Piiholo Xtreme Zip and Climb vs Troop 18

By Joshua Grant

On March, 17 2013 the Boy Scouts of Troop 18 set out for another one of their fun filled adventures. This time it was the Ziplines at Piiholo Ranch, on the outskirts of Makawao town. The Xtreme Zip and Climb tour included 3 canopy zip lines and a tango tower challenge. We spent 3hrs zipping through the trees and climbing up and conquering the seven challenges of the tango tower, which tested our abilities and put us through multiple physical fitness skill tests. Everyone who attended loved the extreme experience and adrenaline rush and would all like to do it again next year.

Biking the Kaanapali Coffee fields

By Joshua Grant

On March, 9 2013 the Boy Scouts of Troop 18 met up at the Scout House at high noon, to set out for part 2 of their biking adventure on the paved roads of Kaanapali Coffee farms private subdivisions. Although it they were biking on paved roads, it was not an easy trek in the Kaanapali hot sun. This was another enjoyable physical workout and a fun activity that they all would enjoy biking again.

MOILILI HONGWANJI VISITS MAKAWAO HONGWANJI

- Thank you Reverend Ikeda for being our Ohigan Service speaker and for your demonstrations. (Shojin Ryori) To quote Rev. Ikeda: "The word "shojin" appears in the Buddhist Teachings and means TO ENDEAVOR. The practice to attain Buddhahood is difficult and in order to continue one's practice, one must take care of one's body.

We learned many things from Reverend Ikeda not only thru his sermon but also from his demonstration. Those in attendance learned many new "tricks" and it was very interesting to learn the "good ole fashion way".

Thank you Paul Sentani for taking the Moilili members to tour Kula and thank you Asano Suizu for Reverend Ikeda's beautiful lei. Thank you Blanche Ito for the flowers that they took home.

"Practice, experiment, adjust and don't be afraid of failure for you learn from your failures."

Reverend Ikeda

Daikon is the Japanese name of the white radish. Daikon originated in mainland Asia where it is known as mooli. Both roots and leaves are edible and full of nutrients.

Locally Grown
7# each

10 Health Benefits of Daikon radish:

Cancer Prevention

Daikon is one of many cruciferous vegetables linked in studies with successful cancer prevention. Daikon contains several great antioxidants associated with fighting free radical damage, a known cause of cancer. Research has also shown that daikon juice helps prevent the formation of dangerous chemicals and carcinogens inside the body and help the liver process toxins.

HIGH IN VITAMIN C

Vitamin C is a powerful antioxidant that not only combats free radical activity in the body but also offers great immune system support and helps prevent illness such as the common cold. 100 grams of daikon provides 34% the DV of vitamin C. Daikon leaves have a much higher concentration of vitamin C than that of daikon roots.

ANTIBACTERIAL & ANTIVIRAL

Appears to be able to combat bacterial and viral infections

ANTI-INFLAMMATORY

Research suggests that high levels of vitamin C & B, such as found in daikon, help to prevent chronic inflammation in the body which can lead to problems such as arthritis and heart disease

DIGESTIVE AID

Raw daikon juice is abundant with human digestive enzymes that help the body process proteins, oil, fat and carbohydrates.

DIURETIC

Daikon helps the kidneys discharge excess water. A natural diuretic, it may also be helpful in treating urinary disorders.

RESPIRATORY HEALTH

Raw daikon juice may help dissolve mucus and phlegm and aid in the healthy function of the respiratory system. Its ability to combat bacteria and viral infections may make it an effective combatant of respiratory disease such as bronchitis, asthma and flu.

SKIN HEALTH

Applied topically or ingested, daikon juice has proven effective in preventing and treating acne and other skin conditions.

BONE HEALTH

Daikon leaves are an excellent source of calcium, which helps promote healthy bone growth and may lower the risk of osteoporosis.

WEIGHT LOSS

In Asia, it is believed that daikon helps the body to burn fat, though this has not been proven, whether it helps burn fat or not, daikon radish is extremely low in fat and cholesterol, but dense with nutrients, making it a great addition to any effective weight loss program.

MAKE-IT MONDAY:

April 1 will be sewing a tissue box to hang in the car.

May will be changed to Sunday, May 5 with a cooking demonstration of Mexican food.

June 3 will be announced.

Thank you to Jean Nishida for sharing some new ideas with us. Hope that some ladies will be able to sew items for the Christmas Country Store. Furoshiki bag, dishtowels, and pot holders will all be nice gift items to sell.

BAZAAR DONATIONS

We welcome any donations for our July bazaar. Now is the time to look at the grocery store sales for some things you'd like to donate. Things like, rice, sugar, flour, sweet potato, condensed milk, butter, nori, tuna, spam, kampyo, shiitake mushrooms. Perhaps, you will have some fruits or vegetables ready by July. And of course, it is Spring Cleaning time so any donations of household goods or clothing to the garage sale would be welcomed. Monetary donations to buy bazaar supplies will also be helpful. Every donation will help Makawao Hongwanji. Mahalo!
